

Another RV8 rear light fitting up for auction of eBay – this one is damaged

The seller describes it as "Condition is Used and the lens is broken unfortunately but might be better than the one you have. Backplate and chrome is fine." But what is the extent of the damage? See an enlarged copy of the seller's photo below:

Clearly the damage to all three lenses is serious so it will only be of interest to an RV8 enthusiast if one of their rear lights has been more seriously damaged and they feel a "patched" unit will be worth having as holding measure pending a new supply being successfully resourced and made available by a reputable parts supplier.
