

News from Franck Morand, MGBGTV8 enthusiast in Thailand

Franck Morand is often back in France enjoying his MGBGTV8. He was with his daughter Ondine at a Le Mans Classic event and on his left side in the photo alongside is Regis Fouquereau, his friend and mechanic who restored his MGBGTV8 many years ago.

Franck is based in Thailand with his family. Here he provides a report on how MGs in the showrooms there.

Franck says "I was coming back from the panel beater and painter who is currently restoring my other Guilia Super (1974) and I dropped by what I believe is the largest of the three MG dealerships is Chiang Mai. The number of new cars in stock reflects the situation of car sales at the moment, but things seem to gradually pick up now".

News from Franck Morand, MGBGTV8 enthusiast in Thailand

The MG brand's connection to the UK and MG history is very much part of the promotion of the new MG models. The whole range was displayed, including the fully electric MG. Franck says "a British classic car enthusiast friend of mine just bought one in Cnx, and drives for free, as he recharges it with his solar panels". See Franck's previous reports from Thailand. More & More

Franck says "Don't be put off by the pick-up trucks, and just bear in mind that Thailand is the second largest world market after the USA. So, this explains that I guess".

