

Norwegian classic car enthusiasts enjoy a New Years Day event near Oslo

Halvor Asland, a keen MG and V8 enthusiast near Oslo in Norway, has sent over a few photos of the annual "Spring Celebration" for classic car enthusiasts held in Oslo on New Years Day

Below right: Halvor stopping during the drive to enjoy an ice cream with "hot" chocolate. I think something hotter and more reviving than an ice cream would be the choice of most participants if they came from the UK!
