Paul Ireland reports "one of the members in East Anglia had the wheel centre stolen from their RV8. To reduce the risk of this happening again, I got some security bolts manufactured (see photo alongside) in stainless steel just like the original security bolts. These are basically the same as the originals with the exception they have a pin in the centre of the hex key so you cannot undo them with a standard Allen key. I still have some left at £20.00 for a set of four bolts and a key plus P&P.

Please be aware, some wheels have an "extra boss" on them which means the security bolts need a longer thread. So anybody ordering the bolts should measure the length of plain bolt and let me know."
